PRESIDENT'S WELCOME MESSAGE

Welcome to Indianapolis – but this is not the first time we have been here. Back in 1988 the Annual Convention was held here. The theme then was Russell & Erwin, certainly a towering firm in the field. Maude Eastwood spoke about Louis Sullivan hardware, and Len Blumin spoke of MCCC and Russell & Erwin.

This year, our sponsors, the Hannums, have selected “The Other Guys” as our theme, which encompasses a range from Nashua, through A. G. Newman, to the Hollenbeck Lock and Knob Company, to even smaller fries. All of their stories are interesting, but I must confess the Hollenbeck story is my favorite, featuring, as it does, a hopeful inventor of shotguns, skullduggery in Syracuse and the gulling of a Jordan, a small town in central New York (current population 1,368) . (See Steve Hannum’s article in TDC 165). There should be some great displays, and (we hope) some previously unknown companies popping up.

In 1988, Steve Menchhofer was one of the hosts, and at the end of the proceedings, lunch was at his place. This year we will have our final brunch there, but I suspect that there may be less eating and more prowling around his magnificent collection.

There will be, of course, the display contests – Best of Show, Best of Theme, most Creative and, of course, the most coveted award, “The Ugly”. Then the auction, banquet, annual meeting and, next morning, the Menchhofers. But most importantly, it will be the renewal of old friendships and meeting new friends. So enjoy!

WELCOME TO INDIANAPOLIS

Welcome to the mid-west! The mid-west was the home of several of the little and sometimes short-lived door hardware makers that are part of the “other guys”. Those whose catalogs survived or had patents are known by name but others are lost. The quality hardware produced survives as a legacy of all.

Indianapolis developed as a manufacturing center after the boom in hardware manufacturing. But for a few years it was the automobile capital of the world with many of the early car-makers located here. The Indianapolis Motor Speedway originated as test track and place to show off the latest technology. In 1908 Carl Prinzier and Henry H. DuPont joined with the Vonnegut Hardware Company of Indianapolis to produce panic hardware for doors. It was sold under the name Von Duprin, a combination of the names Vonnegut, DuPont and Prinzer.

A few of the homes from the Victorian period still exist, including the home of the Indiana poet James Whitcomb Riley. It is located in Lockerbie Square home of several smaller homes from the era. The Old Northside area contains Victorian homes including that of President Benjamin Harrison. West of downtown is the Indiana State Capital Building which was completed in 1888. It is open for tours M-F 9am-3pm. and Saturdays 10:15am - 1 pm.

The Indianapolis Where magazine has maps and other suggestions for visitors.

Tim Harmon

Tim Harmon found his first doorknob while attending a party at the age of fourteen. That lead to a basket of knobs on display in the center of his dinning room table. Mr. Harmon was one of the pioneers in the restoration of the Cottage Home area of Indianapolis. His career of restoring historic homes and building grew to an exciting retail store that sold historic house parts. Twenty-five years later Mr. Harmon partnered with Julie Crow and together they now buy and sell hundreds of doorknobs a year at their salvage store on the near eastside of Indianapolis.

A BRIEF HISTORY

The decades of 1950–1970 witnessed the often sad phenomenon known as urban renewal. Aging Victorian houses were destroyed to make way for modern city dwellings. With luck, salvage-minded opportunists arrived before the wrecker’s ball and bulldozer. Ornate hardware plucked from the ruins made its way to the hands and hearts of collectors, one of whom was a shy and reserved beauty salon operator from Tillamook, Oregon named Maud Eastwood. Not satisfied with merely owning a collection of salvaged doorknobs, Maud was driven by a need to learn. A true scholar emerged, and the hobby of doorknob collecting would never be the same.

Maud traveled the country, scoured libraries and patent documents, talked with collectors, historians, artisans – anyone who might provide knowledge about the whys and wherefores of doorknob history. We are truly thankful that Maud then made an even greater commitment, embarking to share the fruits of her research with others. The result was a remarkable achievement – that 1976 book, The Antique Doorknob (or “TAD” for short). National publications such as Old-House Journal mentioned TAD with praise, and suddenly Maud was contacted from near and far by kindred souls who had succumbed to the strange compulsion to collect old hardware.

1977 saw the publication of a newsletter, The Antique Doorknob. It wasn’t long before the knobbers clamored to form an organization, and small groups of collectors began to meet. By 1981 things were heating up. Arnie Fredrick brought the pot to a boil with an offer to host a meeting of doorknob collectors from around the country in Waverly, Iowa – the first convention.

The first convention was held in Waverly, Iowa,

September, 1981, and those attending agreed to the formation of the Antique Doorknob Collectors of America, or ADCA. Bylaws were drafted, the club formally “incorporated” and ADCA was granted official status as a non-profit entity. By the end of 1981 43 members had joined, growing to 100 in 1985 and to 200 active members in 1990. By year 2000 over 500 people had joined ADCA, with over 250 remaining as active dues-paying members. For simplicity’s sake this account largely omits the names of those who played key roles in the early years of the club’s formation, but it took the dedicated efforts of many individuals to achieve its success.

Mission Statement of ADCA

The Antique Doorknob Collectors of America is a non-profit organization devoted to the study and preservation of ornamental hardware. Established in 1981, the goal of the group is to collect, protect, and research antique builders' hardware, focusing on decorative designs, production methods, and period manufacturers. A long-term vision for the ADCA is the establishment of a public museum dedicated to the field of ornamental builders' hardware. This has evolved into the creation of "virtual museum" at www.antiqueknobs.us.

In addition to publishing an illustrated bi-monthly newsletter, the ADCA maintains an extensive archive of original manufacturers' catalogues and related materials. Able to inform and educate with displays and lectures through schools, civic organizations, or local libraries, ADCA members and resources are also available to preservation groups and restorers of historic properties for consultation and guidance.

Annual membership is $25.00 and includes a subscription to the organization's bi-monthly newsletter, The Doorknob Collector. For further information, contact:

ADCA POLICY ON GIFTS & BEQUESTS

The Antique Doorknob Collectors of America (ADCA) is incorporated as a non-profit organization dedicated to the study and preservation of ornamental hardware. Since ADCA has been qualified as a tax-exempt entity [section 501(c)(3) of the IRS Code], gifts and donation made to ADCA are in general tax deductible to the donor. ADCA will provide donors with appropriate written acknowledgements of all gifts in excess of $250.

K-20500 Mallory Wheeler

ADCA proposes to use gifts and bequests to achieve the ADCA mission of preserving ornamental hardware and educating the public about the history of the hardware industry in America and about the design and function of such hardware.

Examples of ADCA activities that promote its mission include:

- Regular publishing of a newsletter about antique hardware and the activities of the ADCA and its members.
- Maintaining archival materials relating to the history of the hardware industry, and making copies of such materials available to the public.
- Maintaining an internet website to educate the public about ADCA and antique hardware, and responding to hardware questions posed by the public who visit the website.
- Hosting annual conventions where ADCA members and the public can gather to see and learn about antique hardware.
- Encouraging and facilitating the creation of public displays of antique hardware in appropriate public facilities, such as libraries and museums.
- Supporting the publication of books and articles related to antique hardware and the hardware industry.

Gifts and bequests given by the donor without restriction will be used by ADCA under the direction of the ADCA Board, to support and promote activities such as those listed above. Gifts and bequests given with donor designated limitations will be accepted by ADCA if ADCA feels it can comply with the wishes of the donor, and once accepted the funds will be expended according to the limitation imposed by the donor. Donors should make unrestricted gifts by stating that the gift is being made to the “Antique Doorknob Collectors of America.”

ADCA does not currently manage endowment funds, but ADCA will manage any endowment type of gift or bequest so as to preserve the corpus of the assets given and manage the assets so as to provide perpetual income for ADCA activities such as those listed above. Such endowment assets shall be considered “permanently restricted.”
